

Ecuador, Open for Tourism!

Despite the recent challenges caused by forest fires in the capital and temporary power outages, Ecuador remains a destination full of natural and cultural wonders, with a fully operational and competitive tourism sector. Local and national authorities are working tirelessly to ensure the safety of both citizens and visitors, implementing all necessary measures to overcome these challenges.

Ecuador is a resilient country that rises above adversity, with unmatched biodiversity stretching from the Coast, through the Andes, to the Amazon, and the world-renowned Galapagos Islands. The main tourist areas remain unaffected and continue to welcome travelers with open arms. Both tour operators and local communities are prepared to offer safe and authentic experiences, maintaining their focus on sustainability and ecosystem protection.

In coordination with local and international organizations, the Ministry of Tourism of Ecuador has activated contingency plans to ensure that tourism services maintain their quality and safety. Tourist infrastructure in the most visited areas remains fully functional, and operations have been adjusted to meet the needs of the modern traveler, with a renewed focus on authentic, sustainable, and unique experiences.

We invite travelers to rediscover Ecuador and be part of a resilient country that has preserved its treasures so that every visitor can enjoy its diversity. Ecuador is open and ready to offer unforgettable experiences.
